The Allergan Animal Care and Use Committee has approved under protocol 433-100153-2010, Retinal Disease in Primates, an exception to the requirement that primates are to have access to water no less than twice daily for at least 1 hour each time. The exception is required for behavioral studies associated with this protocol. The animals involved received water daily and were monitored according to our water regulation policy. All of the animals on study maintained good health and body condition. No animals were determined to be in distress during the study. The total number of animals that were on water regulation for any time during the year was 28. All of the animals were cynomolgus macaques. These animals are included on line 9 of the annual report under category D.
