

No pain or distress is induced by experimental procedures. As part of the experiment animals are trapped and released. Some times animals that are trapped are found dead, these animals are classified at Category E.