

Cat E statement:

75 chickens were exposed to Non-Invasive Procedure: Abnormal environment (Departure from normal conditions) room temperature elevated to 35 °C for day of age 41-48 to stimulate a gut stress response. Heat stress without remedy, without causing morbidity or mortality in broiler chickens, was required to induce the gut stress response that is the central focus of this study.