Necropsy Report on Mitchell Day rabbit E3

Gross examination:

The rabbit appears to be in good physical condition.

Thorax – lungs are dark and congested with blood, the heart appears to be normal size, and the trachea lining is covered with clotted blood.

Abdomen – all abdominal organs appear normal in size, the serosal surfaces are dark and congested. Normal amount of food and feces are present in the digestive tract.

Conclusion – Cause of death not obvious from gross examination. Suspect that the lungs were under inflating from the amount of congestion seen in necropsy.
